Town Employees' Salary Boost Made By Council

Wages and salaries of most of the employees of the town of Newmarket were increased this week. The increases varied from one to ten dollars a week and up to $300 in per annum salaries. Included were substantial increases in the salaries of police, the town clerk and town engineer. The public health nurse's salary was increased. The police committee decided that police car allowances were more practical than buying one or more police cruisers. The chief constable and deputy chief are each allowed $520 a year for car allow-on teachers' salaries and also on annual debenture payments. Last year debenture payments were made for the Stuart Scott school and a heating plant. Forty-five percent of what the town pays on those debentures each year would have been paid back to the town by the province but it is now only 30 percent. The grant is made after the completion of a full year. It is believed that the reduction in grants will affect the cost of the new Prince Charles school to the town. Construction of the school is well under way on Srigley St. in the former army camp area. There has been no definite statement from deparment sources yet as to whether the grant on construction costs of this school will be affected or

SAYS MERGER DOUBLES COST IN NORTH YORK

"What's going to happen to those municipalities north of Steele's Ave. after amalgamation?" asked Reeve Clive Sinclair. Warden of York county, in a debate with Fred G. Gardiner, chairman of the Toronto and York Planning Board this week.

The northern municipalities are "the backbone of York county yet according to Mayor Mc-Callum, they are 'apples not ripe for plucking." the warden said. He opposes the metropolitan area as conceived by Toronto and has urged the substitution of a county metropolitan area which would meet the problems which exist between city and suburbs while still retaining the independence and identity of the individual municipalities.

No Deer Hunt For Whitchurch Council Decides

Whitchurch township council in session last Saturday with Reeve Ed Logan presiding, decided against giving approval for a deer hunt in the municipality this year. "I wouldn't like to see it, and I don't think the farmers want it," said Reeve Logan, and Councillor Timbers said, "I feel the same." Councillor Richard Baycroft said he hadn't heard any complaint about deer doing damage and wouldn't approve a hunt. Deputy-Reeve Ivan McLaughlin was of the same opinion. End of Means Test,

The regular monthly meeting of East Gwillimbury council was held in Sharon hall March 4. The members were all present. The reeve and deputy reeve were appointed a committee to purchase the old Tate blacksmith shop and land adjoining. The council passed a resolution petitioning the dominion government to lower the old age pension age to 65 on a contributary basis and abolish the means test. This resolution was passed in sympathy with the steel workers and other labor groups who are at present requesting that the above regulations be put into of parliament. As a result of action taken by the county and other municipalities, requesting the federal and provincial governments to assume 100 percent of the relief cost, the council by resolution requested each government to assume 40 percent and the local municipality 20 percent. The council maintains that controls should be kept within the local

As is the fashion of a male considering such an important purchase, we have given considerable thought to the matter. Monday, we made our decision and purchased a holder for 50 cents. We had expected some comment from the rowdier elements of the office. We had not expected the following:

Walking from Adams Barber Shop to the office, we were stopped six times with the query: 'Trying to get away from cigarets?" and four times, we were asked if we were planning a trip to Hollywood. Three friends didn't recognize

The cigaret holder was greeted at home with unseemly laughter from the spouse which so agitated us that in trying to explain, we knocked the blame thing to the floor.

We are clinging grimly to the holder (it does keep the smoke out of our eyes) but it is used only behind barred

A year ago last July, young Allan Greenwood had an accident which cost him his left foot. Last week, Allan was skating with the best of them down at the arena.

Most readers are familiar with Allan's story, how after his accident his friends rallied and raised a fund for his education, how he lay through the hot summer months at the Sick Children's hospital, how patiently and slowly, he retraced his way to health.

We doubt that any of those of a cigaret holder: We have who helped him then expected to ever see him skating. It's a tribute to Allan's will, to his determination, that he now can take part in most games (he was skiing on the weekend and during the fall, was found on the rugby field) and is little handicapped by his injury.

Allan is still going over possibilities for the future and hasn't any definite plans. When he does decide, there is still the Greenwood Trust fund of some $1,700 which his friends raised for him and which is being kept for his education. And it will come in darn handy for a kid who has certainly earned

Our advance scout along the Waterworks Front tells us that it will be a while yet before the ice goes out on Fairey Lake. "Pretty thick," he says with a sage nod of his head.

Our query prompted a chain of thought which led inevitably to the suggestion of organizing a pool on when the ice will go out, something like the Yukon River pool which each spring attracts national attention.

"We used to have a pool like that here," he said, harking back through the years, "only it was for the date the pond froze over. Used to test the ice by skipping stones over it."

He's going to consult Mc-Guffey's Almanac and let us know the exact date the ice will go out.

Business Commission

The cycle of the organization and disbanding of successive Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade is adequate evidence of the inability of Newmarket businessmen to act on their own behalf. No business community can afford to be without some organization which can speak for and act on behalf of its member businessmen. An active, enterprising businessmen's organization is synonymous with a prosperous business community.

Since the repeated failure of Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in Newmarket defeat a fresh attempt before it is begun, there seems to us only one choice left, that of a municipal commission, appointed by council and financed either from the general tax rate or from a special levy on businessmen. If such a proposition appears to favor a special interest, the businessmen, remember that the prosperity of Newmarket depends just as surely upon a flourishing business community as it does upon the industrial payrolls. Everyone suffers if Newmarket's position as a business centre is impaired as it will be unless steps. are taken to protect it.

The town council maintains, as part of its organization, an industrial committee whose function was primarily concerned with the locating in Newmarket of new industry. If such a committee were broadened by the appointment of representative businessmen, and the committee given a status of a commission and financed by the town, its scope could easily be extended to cover all business interests. Within its jurisdiction would fall such matters as publicizing Newmarket as a business centre by signs on the highways, facilitating the location here of new business endeavors, advising on holiday observances and store closing times, encouraging the farmers' market, and the numerous other activities which if brought to a successful conclusion would benefit all of Newmarket's businessmen and through them, everyone in the town.

If necessary, such a commission could employ a permanent secretary, as is the practice in other municipalities, to handle routine business while the commission concerns itself primarily with policy and direc-

Business communities flourish as a result of a happy geographical location, the proximity of natural resources, a situation on a well travelled route, the establishment of a large industry and for many other reasons. These causes have all contributed somewhat to Newmarket's growth and will continue to influence it. There is not, however, any record of a municipality which flourished simply because of them. There must be added an unremitting effort to encourage business in that community. Newmarket businessmen do not act together in this purpose and their individual efforts are not enough. Unless they do act, or unless the action is taken on their behalf, their businesses will eventually suffer and the whole town will suffer with them.

Red Cross: For Emergency

During the next two weeks or so, volunteers will canvass the households in Newmarket and district for contributions towards the Red Cross objective of $1,000. It is not too much to ask that they be greeted in a friendly manner and that their request for assistance be granted with a donation large or small. The need is always great and every cent contributed helps to meet it.

The Red Cross is sometimes handicapped by a misunderstanding of its purpose. The Red Cross is essentially an emergency organization. It does not wait for disaster to strike before undertaking preparations to assist the victims. It tries to anticipate disaster by preparing against that eventuality in advance. It builds up its stock of blood plasma. It furnishes its hospital cupboards. It maintains cots and blankets and ready sources of food supplies so that when disaster does strike, whether fire or flood or famine, it is able to act at once.

When the Noronic burned, the Red Cross did not have to delay while its members were organized and its supplies gathered. The Red Cross was able to act at the first word of the tragedy. Such promptness requires well trained organization and supplies on hand. Advance preparation means a heavy investment. But the immediate action of the Red Cross means the saving of lives.

Apart from its emergency work, the Red Cross has sustaining work on behalf of veterans, in the maintenance of its outpost hospitals, in its establishment of blood plasma banks. Here again, were it not for the work of the Red Cross, lives would be lost, tragedy unopposed.

Your contribution to the Red Cross is divided between national and local activities. All emergencies are not on the scale which makes newspaper headlines. Assistance has been frequently given locally to homes without funds, food or fuel, until relief authorities or other municipal services can be contacted. Or possibly it is a withdrawal of sick room supplies for an individual in need. These are the local services. But should the demand for them exceed the local branch's ability to provide, then there is the full weight of the national organization to draw upon.

The Red Cross is a worthy cause. The Red Cross does for us what anyone of us would do if we were on the scene of the disaster. Our contribution is our evidence of good faith.

Heavy Expenditure

The estimated total expenditures of $500,000 or more proposed by Newmarket council should not come as a surprise. Most of the members, when seeking office, gave ample indication of their intention to spend on roads, sidewalks, municipal building, etc. The decisions being made now had their origin mostly on nomination night and were confirmed on election day.

There is always a tendency to oppose major expenditures while agreeing to their need. It has been a tendency often obvious in council proceedings of other years. The decision to spend on roads, for example, has been pending three years or so since Reeve Arthur Evans first made his recommendations for resurfacing and repair. Many factors contributed to the postponement of this work, some of them unavoidable, others not. A reluctance to spend such a large sum, however, was very real.

But past history forgotten, this year's council is to be congratulated on its willingness to assume the responsibility of these expenditures. Its decision has the real approval of a majority of the electors. A new municipal building, improved roads and sidewalks, the new wing for the high school (in which Newmarket's share is small although the debenture for the whole cost is taken out by the town), and other municipal improvements have been long required, and the public recognizes that it must pay for them.

But while according the approval that these projects merit, it should not be forgotten that their cost might have been a good deal less had the public and councils in the past accepted the need for spending instead of concerning themselves exclusively with the reduction of the debenture debt. There is no stigma attached to a debenture debt. Since municipal bodies are prevented from accumulating surpluses against future expenditures, the only way a municipality can finance large projects is by debentures. A debenture becomes a very real index of progress since it indicates investment in improved municipal facilities.

Facts Of Trade

Most of us are prepared to admit, in theory at least, that trade "is a two-way street", that we must buy if we are to sell. The economic facts of this proposition, as inviting as it may seem, can be downright discouraging as the manufacturers of shirts in Canada have discovered. The shirt manufacturers and labor representatives are protesting the importation of Japanese shirts into Canada for sale here at a price far lower than the domestic product sells for. Labor says that the sale of the shirts, manufactured with the cheap labor to be found in Japan, is undermining the Canadian standard of living. Yet is equally obvious that if Japan is to buy Canadian products, it must have the funds, funds earned by the sale of shirts and other products.

Canada manufactures or produces far more than it can sell on its own market. It must export to prosper. Its markets to be of value, must have funds, funds earned by the sale of their products on the Canadian markets. Canada, with the United States, enjoys the highest standard of living in the world, a standard of living established and maintained by wages paid its workers. Japan, and other foreign markets, with low living standards and abundance of cheap labor, are in a position to sell products of relative value on Canadian markets far below normal Canadian Tariff and import restrictions can protect Canadian markets from invasions from abroad but to what end? Restrict the sale of foreign goods on Canadian markets and ultimately, the sale of Canadian goods on foreign markets is restricted by the lack of funds to buy. Time and necessity will eventually compromise this intolerable situation but not before every part of the Canadian economy has undergone some adjustment. That fact must be accepted.

The state is the servant, not the master, of the people; the state is their guarantee against infringement on their rights, their agent in international and national issues; it is not the function of the state to assume the direction of those activities which rest on individual choice.

The whole issue is no doubt a result of recent publicity on "whom would you like to survive best in a cave if the world blew up" and such nonsense.

The Zoomites remind us of much of a flap about the world; the opposite of a situation in blowing up. My cousin said the novel written by J. B. Priestly some years ago called the "Doomsday Men." One of our members of parliament made a statement that labor and farmers had sacrificed their individualism for organized security. They feared what might happen if they stood alone, he said. For discussion, suppose we say that industry and capital are one. Where the dividing line is, we don't know. Some time back, this group also was fearful and today, we have one of the strongest organizations in Canada, the manufacturer's association. To follow out this line of thought, the manufacturer's association should be number one fear group, labor two and the farmer number three. How do those pressure or fear groups work? Everyone knows how the farmer works. We call a convention. From every county in Ontario comes the farm people. We start in. Reporters and broadcasters tell everything we do. Everyone is welcome. What we are doing is no secret.

Labor has been longer in organization than the farmer and many have learned things. Labor meetings are not so open as the farmer's. The number one group, the manufacturer's association-well, who knows how they work? We know there is plenty of weight behind this group. If there is such a thing as fear in these groups, it may be that the manufacturer's association is afraid of the strength of labor and farmer.

We pay our members of parliament to think out the probtems of our country - not to make sareastic remarks about labor and farmers.

The farm marketing act gives the farmers the right to market their own hogs. There is 90 percent of our hogs just dumped at the packing plants by the farmers. This puts the packers in a very favored position to the disadvantage of the farm-

Why the fluctuation on hog prices, $3 to $4, in a couple of days! When we have our own selling agency we may not be able to stop this sharp fluctuation but we will have the satisfaction of knowing the cause. The packers will not feel pleasant at the thought of lesing such a nice juicy plum as being able to set their own price on hogs. If it were not so serious it would be laughable the way the farmers hand over their hogs to the packers to set the DING.

The opposition we will get from the packers will be mild to that we get from the farmers. When the whole milk producers began to put control on the farmers, the howl was loud and long, but today there is just a little squeak from the diehards.

We have known for some? years we would have to take action with marketing. There are many angles to be consideral ed in forming a policy for marketing. There have been many suggestions as to what should be done. Ten years ago, when the hog producers were first talked about, we wondered where and how we could get leaders. We have overcome the problem of leaders. We have men who have proved that they are qualified.

Our marketing is going to be a large contract. We are going to need more money-the producers of hogs may be called on for 5 cents per hog instead of two cents. Would the whole milk producers return to the old system of selling? They would not! And if such a thing were suggested as doing away with the whole milk producers' collective bargaining power, the farmers would be up in arms. There will always be some farmers that cannot see ahead and we will have to contend with them and carry them along. Cheerlo.

The Newmarket public schools depart from their usual custom of holding an open house at this time of year in favor of a special "Public Schools Supplement" contained in this issue.

The supplement is mostly the work of the students. It contains essays and short stories, verse and other writing efforts of all grades in all three schools. We believe readers will share our admiration and respect for the quality of the work of the students, and the pleasure we have had in reading it.

It is too soon of course to suggest that this become a regular procedure. Certain mechanical problems must be considered. For this issue, however, we are very pleased to recommend this departure from the normal weekly issue and suggest, that if you have enjoyed it as we think you will, and if you share our pride in the accomplishments of the pupils, you will write us about it. And should you feel there are grounds for criticism, we hope you will not be hesitant in telling us.

DUMP DAVIS 3RD WIN GIVES TOWN CROWN

The Town Leaguers switched over to Thursday of last week. The switch didn't do the Tanners one bit of good. The goalhungry Town Merchants skinned the Tanners but good by an Il-4 margin. The win, the Merchies' second straight, gives them a strangle-hold on the Merk League crown. Another such bit of skullduggery sweeps the Tannery into the ash can.

The Tanners found the pipebenders, shirt cleaners and like in a fast skating mood and couldn't do much about holding them in check. The Town took command from the outset. It was 4-2 at the end of the first chapter and the Towners were never headed, boosting their count by three in the second, the Tanners making no reply. The third frame was another town triumph by a 4-2 advan-

The game though was closer than the score would have you believe. Bill Ingram foiled a lot of Tanner thrusts at his twine bungalow. There was enough good hockey to please anyone and enough jibs and jabs to keep the penalty bench warm most of the night as referee Cliff Gunn hastened 13 to the cooler. All were for minor infractions except that to Bob Smith for a misconduct for some after-school chit-chat.

Chief de-hiders in the Town win were Gord Chase, "Murph" Jelley and Ron "Hopalong" with a goal each. Smith and Ken Groves appeared come off next Monday.

contingent is York-Simese Badminton League champions and thus will hold the Bob Yates' Trophy for this season. Aurora completed its championship run with victories this week over Bradford by a 7-1 margin and defeated Richmond Hill by six games to two. Aurora made a clean sweep carrying through the season without a loss to annex first place in the league standing. Bradford finished second, Newmarket third, Willowdale fourth and Richmond Hill fifth.

Plans are now afoot to stage a final closing up tournament for the league at Pickering College early in

MILLIONAIRES HERE?

There is a distinct hope that the local fans will have another chance to see Markham "Millionaires" in action here. At present the Dollar Men and Stouffville "Clippers" are waging a dingdong battle for the group title. Should the four out of seven series require a fifth game, the fifth and possibly deciding contest is booked at attention at the arena here Monday evening. That should make the arena the rallying place for all the fans for miles around. These two clubs go at it hammer and tongs each time out.

Three Overtime Goals Give Spits Win 1500 Fans Jam Arena To See Game

BY GEORGE HASKETT ERA AND EXPRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Now or never week. Spits must win Wednesday or face long, gruesome trip to Parry Sound. Must win Friday with Bradford here or pass out of the Trolley League picture. Sounds like a tall order. Still, after winning 6-4 in the Sound, they should be able to take care of that chore.

Three hours of the most exciting hockey we've seen at the rink in years and years. Had everything to keep a mob of 1,500 fans in an uproar. And it was won by the Spits 9-6 in ten minutes of overtime.

Three goals in that overtime gave the Spits the verdict. First, the tie breaker after 5.34 seconds whipped home by Bill "Hot Shot" Johnston with Normie Legge working the disc into scoring position. Then Bill Mabbett clicked for a pair of goals, probably the most welcome the fans have ever seen. Mabbett's first with "Fink" Tunstead the pass supplier and on the second Myles McInnis let fly a drive that johnny on the spot Mabbett steered into the Sound strings. That did it! Parry Sound had had it! Round two for the Spits

That overtime was the pay-off. There was drama by the bushelful before that as the decision went right down to the wire. Spits had to fly to get the tying counter in the third period. Parry Sound connected for a goal at the 17.02 mark, Time was running out on the Spits. Newmarket flashed in on the Sounders' citadel, a shot, the light went on. But referees Andy Bellemer and Randy Anderson disallowed it. The fans gave vent to their displeasure by heaving everything, including somebody's

When play resumed, coach Stan Smith pulled Freddie Dillman out of the cage in favor of an extra forward. It clicked. Myles. THE TIGER Rodney Smart Grade V, King George School

The tiger is found in India and neighboring countries. He is not found in Africa, the home of the lion, nor in any country west of India. He belongs to the cat family and is about the same size or even a little larger than his cousin, the lion, but he is much more clever than the lion. He knows how to hide better. hunt better and does not make his presence known to his enemies by roaring as much as the lion. Lions sometimes hunt in the broad daylight, but tigers stay hidden until after dark when they can do their hunting with more safety to themselves.

A mother tiger purrs like a giant cat when she is happily playing with her kittens. She cares for her babies very much like a mother cat cares for her years old. Their home is in a cave or in the jungle.

The tiger is shaped very much like a lion in size and general build but because his fur is bright, yellow-orange, shading to white below with black stripes, farming a boy enjoys more than he looks quite different. A Word About This Edition

All the work on this and the immediately following pages is that of Newmarket public school students.

It appears in this form as an alternative to the usual "Open House" and classroom displays which were the practice of other years. It was thought by the principals and the school board, that the work of the students would in this way be better known since attendance at "Open House" has not been large.

Where possible, the work of each school has been kept together. In the limited time for the preparation of this special edition, it was not possible to separate the work by grades, nor was it practical to attempt the usual form of lay-out.

A close reading of these pages is recommended. We are sure every reader will find something to admire, to chuckle over and to unloose memories of their own school days.

The supervising principal, Mr. H. A. Jackson, and principals of the other schools, Messrs. Sam Jefferson and William Blackshaw, and all the teachers are to be congratulated on the excellent work of their pupils.

work? Relief from drudgery is greatly to be desired; but the Creator himself has so arranged things that man must win his bread in the sweat of his brow. And that includes the bread of the spirit no less than physical bread. God is evidently more interested in what we are than in what we have or what we enjoy; and without self-discipline, what we are does not amount to much. Thomas Huxley said: "Perhaps the most valuable result of all education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not; it is the first lesson that ought to be learned; and however a man's training begins, it is probably the last lesson that he learns thoroughly."

Since that time the Junior Red Cross movement has spread to 51 countries and enrolled over 15,000,000 members. This is because it is natural for us to think of everything as we know Diana: I run into the bathroom it from our own personal experience. The Red Cross was born in older than many people living today but in this short time it has spread from its birthplace to every civilized country and has enlisted millions and millions of people of every race and color.

One of the interesting things about the Red Cross is the very large number of activities that are carried on under its banner. If one were to make a list of all the different kinds of work done by the Red Cross in the 51 countries which have Red Cross Societies, one would be astonished by their number. Just to give a few examples: the Norwegian Red Cross is very much interested in keeping sailors well; it has done a great deal for them, both ashore and affoat.
